Visiting Scholars

The PSP welcomed a visiting Portuguese scholar in the 2010-2011 academic year:
João Sardinha, CEMRI, Universidade Aberta, Lisbon

The PSP provided the scholar with office space, clerical support, arranged library access, and arranged visas. The scholar presented a public lecture on his ongoing research and participated in other PSP events.

Additionally, the PSP continued the co-sponsorship of the Post-Doctoral assignment of Maria Elvira Callapez, Universidade Lusófona, Lisboa.

The PSP also welcomed a Junior Visiting Scholar
António João Saraiva, Universidade Aberta, Lisbon
PhD Candidate,
Universidade Aberta, Lisbon

(See Appendix C for biographical information on the visiting scholars.)

Courses on Portugal and/or Lusophone Language and Culture

The Department of Spanish and Portuguese offered nine regular Portuguese Language courses, at four different levels of proficiency; four courses on Portuguese Literature and Culture, Brazilian Literature and Culture and Luso-African Literature and culture. In addition, PSP continues to sponsor the summer course “Portugal – Language and Culture. The project is a cooperative effort between the PSP, UC Berkeley Summer Program Abroad, The Department of Spanish and Portuguese, International Area Studies, Universidade dos Açores, Universidade do Porto, and Universidade Lusófona of Lisbon. For Summer 2007 the course was expanded by one week which to be spent at the Universidade dos Açores in Ponta Delgada, São Miguel (see Appendix C for full course description.)

During the Spring Semester the PSP again offered the seminar in Portuguese studies.

(See Appendix D for full course descriptions).

Portuguese Writer-in-Residence

The Portuguese Writer in Residence program sponsored by the Portuguese Studies Program was inaugurated during the academic year 2003-2004. This year the writer Ondjaki was at Berkeley during the month of February, 2011. Ondjaki was born in 1977 in Luanda, Angola. Upon completing his secondary education in his home town he attended University in Lisbon where he completed a degree in Sociology with a project on the Angolan writer Luandino Vieira. Ondjaki has published several books of poetry and prose and in 2008 was the winner of the Grande Prémio de Conto Camilo Castelo Branco by the Portuguese Writers’ Association for the novel Os da Minha Rua. Also in 2008 he received the Grinzane for Africa award, in the category of young writer, and in 2010 he won the very prestigious Jabuti Prize 2010 for his book Avó Dezanove e o Segredo do Soviético. Ondjaki has also written film scripts and co-produced films, one of which – Oxalá Cresçam Pitangas (Hopefully Pitangas Will Grow) was presented during his tenure at Berkeley. In addition to giving two lectures and a film presentation sponsored by the Portuguese Studies Program, Ondjaki visited all Portuguese classes, and participated in several events held during her residency and offered an intensive workshop in creative writing for UC, Berkeley students of Portuguese. The residency was extremely successful and rewarding, and the PSP is looking forward to the 2011-2012 academic year when we expect to welcome the Portuguese Poet Gastão Cruz.

The Portuguese Writer in Residence has proven to be a fruitful program that provides visibility to the Portuguese Studies Program, as well as to the literary production in Portuguese. Past participants include Álamo de Oliveira, Pepetela, Teolinda Gersão, Inês Pedrosa, Helder Macedo, Ana Luisa Amaral, Ruy duarte de Carvalho, and José Vieira Mendes.

Library Acquisitions

Once again the PSP renewed its grant of $2,000.00 for the purchase of Portuguese materials. As in the past, this grant will be matched by the UC Berkeley Library, and has resulted in dramatically improving an already impressive collection of Portuguese literature, history, and social science. Mostly due to the grants received from PSP over the years, the UC Berkeley Library has been able to purchase a very large number of Portuguese Books, and now has one of the largest collections of Portuguese books in the United States.

Additionally, the Portuguese Studies Program continues to donate to the UC Berkeley Library copies of books that are sent to the program by different individuals and/or institutions, many of which are the result of research conducted at Berkeley, with the support of PSP.

(See Appendix E for a full list of library acquisitions)

Regional Oral History Office (ROHO)

For the eighth year, the PSP has continued its commitment to supporting the collection of oral histories of members of the Portuguese-American community in California with a grant of $2,000.00. In 2000 Kathy Zvanovec convened the Portuguese Oral History Project Advisory Committee. At that time, ROHO provided a grant matching the $5,000 granted by the PSP in Spring 2000. The PSP and ROHO approached the Department of Spanish and Portuguese with the project, and the Department expressed interest in having its students of Portuguese work on oral history projects as part of their training. The project also has the collaboration of students from the Undergraduate Research Apprenticeship Program of the University of California, Berkeley. At the LAEF conference in Spring 2001, Kathy Zvanovec made the oral history project a point of community outreach. With the continued support of the Portuguese Studies Program, the Portuguese Oral History Project has continued to collect interviews of members of the Portuguese-American community of Northern California. At the LAEF Conference in Spring 2004, Professor Donald Warrin, presented the results of his interview with LAEF's founder Mr. Manuel Reis, additionally, a printed copy of the interview was available for all conference participants. The PSP and ROHO look forward to the continuation of this joint project, and several interviews, as well as presentations are scheduled for 2011-2012.

The Portuguese-American Oral History Project Advisory Committee is composed of the following members:

Deolinda Adão, LAEF Director, PSP Coordinator.

Manuel Bettencourt, LAEF Director

Al Dutra, Portuguese Heritage Society, Director

Leonel Goulart, Portuguese Heritage Publications, Director

Donald Warrin, Professor Emeritus, California State University, Hayward: Assistant Director, University of California, Berkeley, ROHO

Exchange and Partnership Relations

During the 2010-2011 academic year, the PSP maintained several exchange and partnership relations with universities and institutions in Portugal as well as in other Portuguese Speaking Countries or Territories. Additionally two new agreements were signed one with the Universidade de Lisboa in Lisbon, Portugal and the other with the Instituto Politécnico de Castelo Branco, Idanha-A-Nova.

Other activities:

During the academic year 2009-2010 Matt Kondolf and Deolinda Adão represented the Portuguese Studies Program at the following events:

August 27-29, 2010. By Invitation of Dr. Graça Castanho, Secretary of the Portuguese Communities for the Autonomous Government of the Azores Deolinda Adao participated and presented a lecture at the conference Portuguese: A multi-cultural language. Held at Bristol Community College in Fall River, Massachusetts.

September 17, 2011 and March 11, 2011. Deolinda Adao represented the Portuguese Studies Program in meeting sponsored by the Consul General of Portugal and held at the Portuguese Consulate in San Francisco.

October 14-15, 2010. By invitation of Diniz Borges, Deolinda Adão participated in Portuguese Heritage Week in the city of Tulare, California. In addition to making several classroom presentations, Deolinda conducted a general presentation regarding the Portuguese Studies Program at the University of California, Berkeley and Scholarship opportunities for Portuguese-American Students at this University

October 22-23, 2010. Conference on Portuguese Emigrant Women. Toronto, Canada. Deolinda Adão made a presentation regarding the literary production of several female authors of Portuguese community in California, as well as, the Portuguese Studies Program's activities at the University of California, Berkeley. An additional presentation was made highlighting the publications sponsored by the Portuguese Studies Program.

October 24, 2010. Deolinda Adão represented the PSP at the annual PALCUS Gala, honoring Dr. Rui Machette.

November 27 – December 5, 2010. Deolinda Adão represented the PSP at the tri-annual Macanese from the Diaspora Conference in Macau, China. During the conference Deolinda made several presentations regarding PSP's activities with the Macanese community of California, and made a presentation with the title Patua: Doci Lingu de Macau, which focused on the Macanese Patua and its chances for survival in today's society.

May 11-15, 2011. Deolinda Adão represented the PSP at the Conference The Voice and Choice of Portuguese emigrant women in France and other places. This conference which is a continuation of the conference with similar title held at the University of California, Berkeley in 2005 was held in Paris, France. In addition to making a presentation on the Portuguese-American writer Maria das Dores Beirão, Deolinda presented the newly published proceedings from the conference held at Berkeley.

Projects in Cooperation with Portuguese Universities

University of the Azores

The Portuguese Studies Program in partnership with the University of the Azores is undertaking a project that aims to facilitate the translation into English of the works by selected Portuguese writers, and their subsequent publication and distribution in the English speaking world. Under this program, a bilingual copy of the History of the Azores with the title Azores: Nine Islands, One History was published. Presently under translation is an Anthology of the works of Natália Correia. The translation is being coordinated by Deolinda Adão and Rosa Simas. The bi-lingual edition is scheduled for publication during the 2012-2013 Academic year.

University of Porto

During the current academic year, the Portuguese Studies Program, continue to strengthen the cooperation with the University of Porto, through the existing project with the Department of Mechanical Engineering of the University of California, Berkeley (see attachment for full details.) Additionally, the University of Porto is one of PSP's partners for the Berkeley Summer Course in Portugal. Through the efforts of the Portuguese Studies Program, the University of Porto has signed an agreement with the University of California, Berkeley Summer Sessions that provides for the enrollment of Portuguese Students in the Summer Sessions at Berkeley. The project is proving to be very successful with the enrollment of 31 Portuguese students for Summer 2010.

Student Fellowships and Grants

PSP was pleased to award 5 fellowships for independent thesis research and summer language institute attendance, and through the Graduate Division, to award Pinto-Fialon grants to twenty-nine undergraduate and ten graduate students of Portuguese descent. Additionally, 31 students enrolled in Berkeley classes taking place in Portugal, were also awarded funding. Also funded were six Portuguese Students who attended Summer School at the University of California, Berkeley. (See Appendix F for list of students)

California's World Language Content Standards:
Overview and Strategies for Classroom Application
Room 101

For the first time, the California State Board of Education approved World Language Content Standards in January 2009 and these standards are to be used as the organizing principle for planning, designing, implementing and assessing World Language and Culture education in California's public schools. The presenter will provide an overview of the standards, engage participants in activities that deepen their understanding of the Language Learning Continuum (LLC) and share the key features of standards' five domains: Content, Communication, Cultures, Structures and Settings. Additionally, exemplars of pedagogical strategies for how to translate these domains into effective learning strategies will be demonstrated.

Presenter: Christine Lanphere, is a teacher of French Language and Cultures at Natomas High School, received the CLTA Outstanding Teacher Award, was named the SWCOLT Regional Language Teacher of the Year and then named ACTFL National Language Teacher of the Year in 2007. She is a member of the Curriculum Commission, Co-Director of the Capitol Foreign Language Project and a very active member in the profession.

Presided by: Duarte Silva, California Foreign Language Project, Stanford University

This workshop will have the participation of teachers of Portuguese, Spanish and French from various high schools in central California and public High School where Portuguese is taught and private Portuguese Heritage schools throughout California.

Maria Elvira Callapez

Assistant Professor, Universidade Lusófona de Humanidades e Tecnologias, Lisbon, 2004 -2006 - Post-Doctorate at University of California Berkeley, EUA

After obtaining a Bachelors degree in Applied Chemistry, with an emphasis in Organic Chemistry, from the Universidade Nova de Lisboa, Professor Maria Elvira Callapez obtained a Masters and Doctoral degree in History and Philosophy of Science from the same University. For the last 2 years she has been a Post-doctoral visiting scholar at the Office for the History of Science and Technology, and has cooperated in many projects developed by the Portuguese Studies Program. Her work in the area of History of Science is innovative and upon her return to Portugal, she will be part of a small group of scholars that are excelling in the area of History of Science and Technology. She has several publications in this area, and has published countless papers on the subject, as well as participating in many conferences world-wide.

Ondjaki

Poet, prose-writer and documentarian ONDJAKI, was born in 1977 in Angola's capital city, Luanda, which is also where he grew up. Ondjaki studied Sociology in Lisbon, obtained his Masters qualification in Cinema studies in New York and completed his doctorate in African Studies at Naples University.

A prolific writer of the Portuguese language in Africa who has published his own poems and novels across the past decade, the highly versatile Ondjaki has also exhibited his paintings, and given public performances as an actor. In 2006, he co-directed a documentary about the city of Luanda. Ondjaki also writes for theatre and for television.

Ondjaki was awarded the Grande Prémio de Conto Camilo Castelo Branco for 2008 by the Portuguese Writers' Association for his novel Os da Minha Rua (Those of My Street). In 2008, he was also distinguished with the Grinzane for Africa award, in the category of young writer and his most recent win is of the prestigious Jabuti Prize 2010 with his book AvóDezanove e o Segredo do Soviético (AvóDezanove and the Secret of the Soviet). A member of the Union of Angolan Writers, Ondjaki has had some of his books translated into French, Spanish, Italian, German, English, Serbian and Swedish.

On his motivation for writing, Ondjaki comments: "In the end, I think I write because of a need. I write prose and poetry because I feel I have something to share, or a good tale to write about. I also think that writing may be a process of making some sort of intervention in the world."

Of his writing process, Ondjaki continues to insightfully articulate: "I write mostly during the night, where ghosts and silences wait for me."

Ondjaki currently lives in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil.
